These steps ensure the highest delivery and open rates!

Different ad sizes give you the flexibility to tailor your promotion depending on your marketing goal and budget. Need to generate leads? Promote your catalog or special discount offer. Want to create brand awareness? Use the larger rectangle to get the job done. Launching a new product? The featured product boxes are perfect for this.

But remember … When we’re sold out, we’re sold out. We limit the number of advertisers in each newsletter. This guarantees your company a prominent ad position. Talk to your account manager today to book your ad today!

MICROSITES

Microsites are a great way to create a targeted destination for niche content or product lines for the communications professional.

They can serve jointly as an excellent brand marketing tool as well as a lead generation vehicle to drive new customers. The microsite experience can be richer, more inviting, more experiential, and more emotional than online experiences pasted within the typical data-oriented corporate site.

We’ll partner with you to develop a 360-degree, 24/7 online destination that meets your company’s goals and needs—and most importantly budget. We can feature original and archived content, unique Web features and opt-in newsletters. Microsites are also great for targeting a specific audience with information or brand messaging that will appeal to their demographics and psychographics.

Since not all of our clients will need the functionality listed—and some may need more—the scope and pricing of your Microsite may vary. Whether your campaign needs are simple or comprehensive, we can assist you in developing a fully integrated online and offline marketing program that drives your business forward. Each microsite includes full site development, editorial support and promotion, and site-wide navigation/links, e-mail efforts and more.

For more detailed information on microsite opportunities, please contact your Account Manager.
